Barbara Ireland, a writer and editor based in western New York State, is a former deputy travel editor and deputy Op-Ed page editor at The New York Times. While on the Times staff, she commissioned and edited many "36 Hours" columns and wrote a few herself. She is a graduate of Cornell University and was a John S. Knight journalism fellow at Stanford University.

Bought these as a present for my brother who was going to Europe for the first time. He loved them! So much information and the card that came with it allowing you to access everything online was great for him to use while there if needed. I liked it so much when I received it that I went and bought one for me!

I absolutely love them book set. I love the color photos, the information; this is definitely my guide for my next trip. I didn't have the heart to throw away the nice carrying case that it came in. A must for anyone looking for a physical or mental vacation.

This is a great addition to the other 2 I have. A little pricey but it comes in a very nice box that I have reuse to store other travel book. Nice picture and very concise and clear information.

I'm having so much fun reading through these 36 hours. When I'm in need of a mental vacation I can jump from São Paulo to Singapore to Shanghai. These books have come in handy on my travels and have been great for a coffee table read too. Highly recommended!

Love the design of books, soft cover allows for lots of digging and exploring. Great resource for anyone who loves to explore, even if it's for longer than 36 hours.

So helpful if you never been somewhere it will give you ideas what to do. And looks good in my library.

This made a perfect bday Gift and a great colorful coffee table book.

I followed my daughter around Europe with this as a guide. I visited San Francisco this summer and used it, also Sedona, AZ. Has yet to steer us wrong!
