Jessica Gunderson grew up in the small town of Washburn, North Dakota. She has a bachelor's degree from the University of North Dakota and an MFA in Creative Writing from Minnesota State University, Mankato. She has written more than fifty books for young readers. Her book Ropes of Revolution won the 2008 Moonbeam Award for best graphic novel. She currently lives in Madison, Wisconsin, with her husband and cat.

Jessica Gunderson does a wonderful job giving information about bowhunting. This book is meant for young children who are interested in the sport. She talks about all of the important aspects of the bowhunting such as tracking, choosing the right bow, the correct location on the animal to aim at, safety and so much more. This book is meant to be a resource guide or a more informational. If you are looking for a story about bowhunting, you will need to look further. If you want to teach your child physical and ethical bowhunting, then this is the book for you. I would strongly encourage the book be read by any young child interested in archery and/or the sport of bowhunting in general. The book is very informative at an easy to understand level.
