Who knew that basic items in your pantry would make great natural shampoos? In Homemade Shampoo: A Complete Beginner's Guide To Natural DIY Shampoos, you will learn tips and techniques for maintaining a natural, chemical free hair maintenance program. Not only are these recipes easy to make which of course there are 34 of them, but they are low-cost and the plus side is that they are non-toxic. There are recipes for all types of hair from dry hair to oily hair there's a recipe for everyone. I loved the recipe that included peppermint because my scalp felt so clean and re-energized that I shampooed my hair three times with. Then after my hair was dry I oiled my scalp with some lavender oil. And yes, I use it at night so I could have a good night's rest. If you want great hair, and a clean scalp on a budget then this book will help you to achieve that. Don't wait, get a copy and start growing great hair today.

These recipes are not homemade shampoo...are just castille soap with various essential oils that potentially can be used as shampoo...however, castille soap for most of the people just not have the correct pH and is not good choice for hair..I wish at least she had a good recipe for handmade liquid castille soap with a combination of oils and ingredients that are suitable for hair, for those that know the technique at least (and I am certain that many of the readers know how to make liquid soap and were just looking for recipes suitable for hair...)..and the rest of the recipes are some even worse ideas of various fresh stuff on the hair....I was so excited to purchase this book and so disappointed afterwards....

Great information, not many people know the chemicals in products that run over your skin and or that are use on your skin can be absorbed and cause so much that we just figure is normal. Once you 've you've used natural products for a time, and then these chemicals get on you and you have a hot flash or headache. You will know why. Good luck and Really be free of chemicals and BE!!!

I'm in love with this ebook! It gives you a very detailed description why you should switch from ordinary shampoos to homemade shampoos, you'll learn every benefit of a DIY shampoo. The recipes are very easy to follow and understand, and the ingredients are not hard to get. I've already tried the lavender and bergamot milky mix and the shiny strawberry shampoo, they do wonders with one's hair! Absolutely recommended.

This is a straightforward guide on why you should stop using commercial shampoos and make them yourself at home instead. It has a convenient guide on various natural ingredients you can use to create your own version. It even comes with over 30 recipes with detailed steps. It's worth checking out!

very good information. looking forward to trying out all the recipes

What an amazing book - it's an eye-opener. I never thought that homemade shampoo has that many benefits. Now I understand why I often have problems with dry scalp. I definitely will change my habits and start making my own toxin-free shampoo. This book is a really great guide towards making your own shampoo and it offers a great variety of shampoo recipes for beginners and advanced. I highly recommend this book.
