Eugenia Lincoln And The Unexpected Package: Tales From Deckawoo Drive, Volume Four

Synopsis

What will it take for a cynical older sister to realize she's a born accordion player • with music in her heart? Eugenia Lincoln is a practical person with no time for gee-gaws, whoop-de-whoops, or frivolity. When an unexpected package containing an accordion arrives at her house, she is determined to have nothing to do with it. But her plans to sell the accordion, destroy the accordion, and give the accordion away all end in frustration. How can Eugenia stop being tormented by this troublesome package? Might she discover that a bit of unforeseen frivolity could be surprisingly . . . joyous?

Customer Reviews

Van Dusen's illustrations enliven the already amusing text. A great addition to chapter book shelves and a must-have for fans of the series. •School Library Journal
The text is peppered with tough vocabulary for the more advanced independent readers in the intended age group, but the story also works well as a bedtime read-aloud for those not ready to tackle words and phrases such as "malevolent," "obtuse," or "diametrically opposed" on their own. Eugenia's need for routine and her intolerance of change and uncertainty will resonate with readers who experience life similarly. •Kirkus Reviews
