My 2 1/2 year old twins love If You Give a Mouse a Cookie and always request it before bedtime so we decided to order some more of the Mouse books. Personally I love the board books because my kids tend to be rough with books and the board books seem to be able to withstand the toddler years thus far. Time for School, Mouse! is a nice, simple book. It has one to two sentences on each page and asks where are Mouse's backpack, notebooks, pencils, etc. I really like how it makes it easy for kids to point out these objects so they learn what they are from a young age. There isn't a whole lot to the story but I think it's perfect for young children. My kids are happy so that makes me happy!

We love every book Laura Numeroff writes about mouse. My 3 now 4 year old favorite books are his "mouse books". We buy every one lately. This one really helps him understand going to school is fun he's been giving me trouble wanting to go lately.

Great read for new school year

I first encountered these books from Chick-fil-A and my grands love them. I am pleased that these books are offered as board books. So cute and great stories.

Great illustrations really enliven this book. It humorously shows how important it is to get your schoolwork ready for school the night before. (Personally, I need a magic backpack like the one in this book!)

Cute Mouse book!

my son loves all these board books, and I wanted to find him more similar to what he has already, and he loved this book!!! He memorizes the simple story and has asked for me to read it to him time and time again!
